

Minerals and Waste - never popular, always changing

Aaron & Partners LLP are industry recognised specialists in the law relating to the Minerals and Waste sectors. We understand the challenges you face.

AARON & PARTNERS LLP

SOLICITORS

Chambers and Partners 2007 Guide to the UK Legal Profession rates the Aaron & Partners Team highly, giving special mention to Simon Carter, Team Leader, as being a national Leader in this area of law, with the whole team recommended for its “personable and friendly service”.

Minerals

Aaron & Partners LLP has highly specialised solicitors, including Partners Simon Carter and Richard Forrester who all act for clients in the minerals and waste sectors. Whether your requirement is for a detailed lease agreement in relation to minerals on your land, or you have issues relating to land contamination and pollution caused by mining activity, you can be sure that we have the expertise to guide you through the legal minefield, offering practical, commercially-focused advice, every step of the way.

Waste

If your business depends on the effective treatment or management of waste, Aaron & Partners LLP can help with practical and efficient action. Our solicitors are fully conversant with the commercial and practical background to waste management and can advise on all legal aspects of the production, carriage, handling, treatment and disposal of waste and related subjects.

Working closely with related specialisms, including Planning and Environmental Law and Transport, allows us to fully meet all of our clients' needs, from gaining planning permission and handling and storing waste to the management of the logistics of the operation.

The team has considerable experience and knowledge of the waste management sector and regularly deals with complex issues involving planning, licensing and permitting relating to the management of waste, planning objections to waste management facilities and option agreements with landowners.
